

No one expects a serious illness like cancer or a heart attack. But you can be better prepared.

If you experience a serious illness, you should be focused on your health, not your finances.

Unfortunately, in too many cases the illness is only part of the fight. While your health insurance may help cover doctor appointments and treatments, the full cost of care can be significant. Out-of-pocket costs like medical deductibles, co-insurance and out-of-network office visits, and even time away from work and daily living expenses, can have a long-lasting impact on a family's finances. Rely on Critical Illness insurance to provide financial support when it's needed the most.

Which serious diseases or illnesses have impacted your circle of family and friends?

How did it create an unexpected emotional or financial strain on the household?

How would you cover out-of-pocket medical expenses and other costs of $5,000 or more?

Which LifeSecure solutions would be a good fit for you or your family to provide financial support and help with additional costs associated with a serious illness?

Critical Illness insurance pays a lump-sum cash benefit directly to you to help with:

- Medical deductibles, co-pays or co-insurance
